Chicken Netting Instructions

What you have received

Some poles are already in place.
50m netting comes with 15 poles.
25m netting comes with 8 poles.

You will have some extra poles.
50m netting comes with 17 poles.
25m netting comes with 8 poles.

50m comes with 17 pole clips.
25m comes with 8 pole clips.

Assembly time

No more than 15 minutes

Step 1 - Carefully unroll the netting

Before you start

This netting is suitable for large hens or bantams and can be used with your Eglu chicken house. Plan where you want you netting to be and carefully unroll it. Ideally this should be on a flat surface. Be careful not to create a trip hazard.

Unroll the netting

Step 2 - Threading the poles

Thread the pole into the net under over under over all the way to the top.

Step 3 - Attaching the pole clips

Place a clip on to the netting where the bottom of the pole will be.

Make sure the net goes through the clip, as shown above.

Feed the pole into the clip in front of the netting, this will hold the netting in place.

Step 4 - Slide pole through clip

Once the pole is through the clip slide it all the way into place as shown.

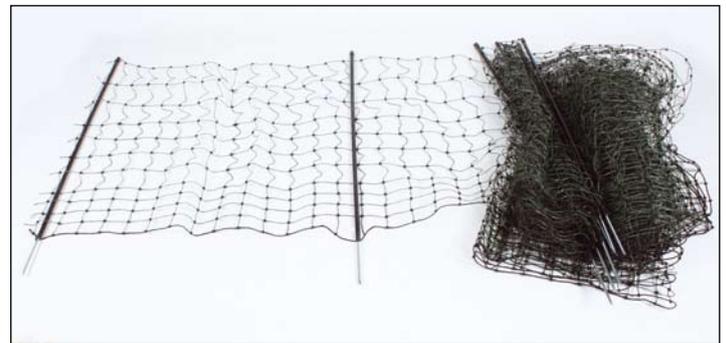

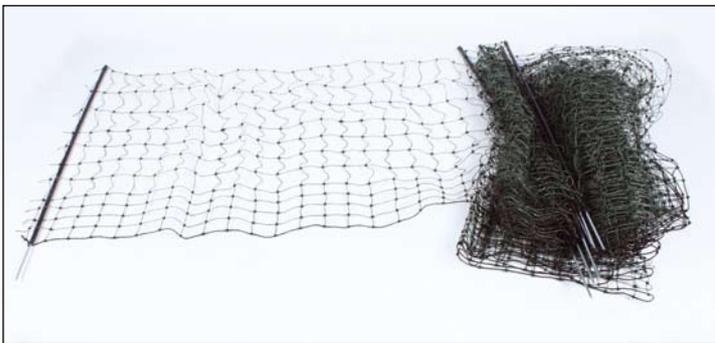

Push the pole through and be careful of the sharp pointy end.

Step 5 - Secure top of net to pole

Once the pole is fixed at the bottom of the net you need to secure the top. Feed the top edge of the net into the top of the pole as shown above. Make sure you pull the net through the gap to keep it in place.

Step 6 - Add the other poles

Continue to add the other poles to the netting, spacing them out evenly along the length of your netting.

Fencing off an area of your garden

Now simply push the poles into the ground to create a fenced section. It can be used around the eglu to allow chickens extra space to free range, without them walking around the whole garden.

It can also be used to block off areas of the garden, such as a vegetable patch, to stop your hens from pecking at your prize parsnips. The bottom rows of the netting have smaller holes, making the netting suitable for bantams too!
