

Is it time you gave your cat some privacy?

Omlet launch a new furniture-style litter box to give cats the privacy they deserve.

Us humans can enjoy a visit to the bathroom in peace and quiet, perhaps with a magazine to pass the time, but have you ever thought about the disturbances your cat has to put up with on a trip to the lavatory?

Cats have a natural instinct to be alert at all times to protect themselves, and using an open litter tray in view of other people and pets can cause your cat to feel incredibly vulnerable and exposed. Cats may have also been told off in the past for going to the toilet where they shouldn't have, so being watched or disturbed while using the litter tray can also add to feelings of vulnerability and fear.

Don't worry moggies - Omlet's got you covered!

At last! Your cat can finally do their 1s and 2s in complete privacy with no rude disturbances or walks of shame, thanks to Omlet's NEW fully enclosed Maya Cat Litter Box. Designed like a discreet cubicle, the Maya fits so seamlessly into your home, visitors won't even be able to guess what it's for.

In a range of 5 styles to suit cat's who like to walk in, jump on or jump in to their kitty closet, the Maya reduces odour, minimises litter tracking and provides that all important privacy.

Whilst the outside has a bright, clean and fresh furniture look, inside it's all business, with a storage area for spare litter, a wipe clean liner and complimentary fold flat scoop that tucks neatly into the special hidden pocket. Your cat can even amuse themselves by spotting fish in the cute underwater scene printed on the inside of the unique liner.

Omlet's Head of Design, Simon Nicholls, says: "Omlet's product design team have been bursting to change the world of cat litter trays so when the opportunity became available it was a big relief. I'm pleased to say I think they've really cracked it with the new Maya cat litter box range. If I was a cat this is where I would choose to do my business."

Omlet Maya Cat Litter Box is now available exclusively from Omlet.co.uk, priced from £109.99.
